Under the Utah Fit Premises Act, if a landlord or property owner fails to take substantial action to correct the deficiencies stated below within the corrective period listed, a tenant shall choose one of the following remedies:

1. Rent Abatement.

a. Utah Code 57-22-6(4)(D)(i) states:

[I]f the renter chose the rent abatement remedy in the notice of deficient condition: (A) the renter's rent is abated as of the date of the notice of deficient condition to the owner; (B) the rental agreement is terminated; (C) the owner shall immediately pay to the renter: (I) the entire security deposit that the renter paid under the rental agreement; and (II) a prorated refund for any prepaid rent, including any rent the renter paid for the period after the date on which the renter gave the owner the notice of deficient condition; and (D) the renter shall vacate the residential rental unit within 10 calendar days after the expiration of the corrective period; or

2. Repair and Deduct.

a. Utah Code 57-22-6(4)(D)(ii) states:

[I]f the renter chose the repair and deduct remedy in the notice of deficient condition, and subject to Subsection (4)(c), the renter: (A) may: (I) correct the deficient condition described in the notice of deficient condition; and (II) deduct from future rent the amount the renter paid to correct the deficient condition, not to exceed an amount equal to two months' rent; and (B) shall: (I) maintain all receipts documenting the amount the renter paid to correct the deficient condition; and (II) provide a copy of those receipts to the owner within five calendar days after the beginning of the next rental period.

After the corrective period expires, a renter may bring an action in district court to enforce the renter remedy that the renter chose in the notice of deficient condition. If the court finds that the owner unjustifiably refused to correct a deficient condition or failed to use due diligence to correct a deficient condition, the renter is entitled to any damages, in addition to the applicable renter remedy. Further, the court may award costs and reasonable attorney fees to the prevailing party.
